"We Pay Tribute"

Dedication

Your ultimate desire for us to search for the truths concerning man and his universe has been evident. Your wisdom has created in us a thirst for the cultivation of the intellect. Observing your strong convictions has enabled us to bring our potential ability to bear fully and effectively on the task at hand. Your stamina and perseverance at your daily work have guided us with a sense of purpose and a mature attitude. Your visions, dreams, and philosophy of Higher Education will always make us proud of our Alma Mater.

The versatility of your genius has made a profound impression upon us and the exacting thoroughness in which you have shared your knowledge has gained the respect of all members of the College Family.

For the above reasons, we, the senior class of 1960, bring to you--Dr. Rudolph Jones--the great pleasure which we desire in making you the dedicatee of the 1960 edition of the Bronco.

In the years to come we hope that you will enjoy all of the pleasures that virtue permits or as a Frenchman would say: Jouissez de plaisirs que la vertu permet.

ADMINISTRATION

Dr. Rudolph Jones, President

The President Speaks

It is with somewhat mixed emotions that I offer sincere congratulations and best wishes to the members of the class of 1960. For sentimental reasons I shall always feel close to this particular class. The point, of course, is that you entered the college as freshmen my first year as President. You constitute the first class to complete four years of study under my administration. We have shared many educational experiences since September, 1956.

As you go out from the portals of this institution may you resolve always to uphold the ideals that have been instilled into your minds and hearts while here. May you always look back with fond memories to the profitable years spent at dear old Fayetteville State Teachers College. May you always labor to reflect credit upon yourselves and upon the college. I bid you Godspeed.

To the senior class

Dr. Lafayette Parker, Dean

Congratulations to you who are now joining the world of work and service. It is our hope that you will be as diligent in your efforts to secure and hold appropriate positions as to finish the academic requirements for such.

The Registrar's "So Long-" To The Senior Class of '60

With the passing from these walls of each succeeding class, I have said so long to a majority of them by word over the counter, by letter and sometimes by telephone in connection with calls that had a business overtone. This year, I have decided to take the present method to reach the class as a whole.

And it must be "so long", not good-bye, for the young folk in the Fayetteville State Teachers College Class of '60 are beginning, not ending a fruitful profession life--- the fulfillment of perhaps their fondest dream.

Lenna M. Means
Registrar
B.S.--South Carolina A.M. College

To The Senior Class of 1960

Congratulations on your graduation, and best wishes in your future undertakings.

Arthur J. Pindle
Business Manager
B.S.--Hampton Institue

Farewell Greetings to The Class of 1960

It is a pleasure to congratulate you and wish you God-speed as you leave these familiar surroundings to meet the challenge of the world outside. Your Library Staff hopes that you have taken advantage of the services offered by the Chesnutt Library and that you go forth with the inner resources which come from much reading. Remember that the best teachers are those who are lifetime readers and each of us has it in his power to go on growing throughout his life, by pursuing the reading habit. Remember, too, that wherever you go librarians are always willing and anxious to help you with all your reading problems, personal and professional. Good luck and good reading through all the years to come!

Alice A. Jackson,
Librarian
M.S.--Columbia University

Upon your Graduation

The prognosis for the future is favorable for you--Class of 1960. Since every life activity has direction, your graduation offers me felicity in challenging another one of your life-fulfillments. From all of your learning and your knowledge of learning, remember that all learning has three relationships, aspects, or effects which operate simultaneously. One is to the self, a second is to others in the immediate environment, and the third is to the larger world or universe of which the interacting individuals are members. What one believes or does toward others, and what one conceives as his place in the great universe are dependent upon what he is to himself.

In your progressive movement toward the Good Life, you must continuously improve the quality of the meanings which constitute the self. The various curricula at the college have prepared you for a contribution and a responsibility. Those of us who will be working with the youth of the world should strive to:

"Draw back the veil over their eyes
Lift the curtain which covers their minds
Break the emotional seals of their childhood years
Release the capacity with which they are endowed
Teach them the process of their emerging selves
And thus, bring into being a better world
Exemplifying the glory of your God, whoever He may be
Through the human, creative intelligence of man"

L. T. Hopkins

Keep the forward look!

Charles D. Sanders,
Dean of Men
M. Ed.--Springfield College

Bon Voyage to the Class of 1960

A bon voyage greeting to the class of 1960 is especially fraught with sentiment for me because I remember vividly that we were "green freshmen" together. You were no more frightened than I as we both began careers at F.S.T.C. I become nostalgic as I remember the excitement of learning and discovering together, of the good times, of the mistakes, and of the immeasurable assistance you gave me and continued to give.

You are graduating at the beginning of a new decade with a promise of new experiences and changes. As you join the ranks of Fayetteville Alumni, may you never forget to be loyal to your Alma Mater and its precepts, to responsibly participate in your communities, to practice wholesome individuality versus static conformity, and to rise above mediocrity and reach excellence.

Our Queen

Miss Christine Williams, vivacious, charming, sedate, and forever pleasant, is a true representative of the renowned Fayetteville State Teachers College. Miss Williams hails from Pikeville, N. C., and is called "lady gracious" by all of her subjects--the students of Fayetteville State Teachers College--as she reigns as "Miss Fayetteville State".

She is a member of the Drama Guild, Future Alumni, Voice Staff, and the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. Miss Williams is majoring in elementary education with emphasis on the grammar grades.

Miss Homecoming

Miss Allene Pearl Carter, a native Fayettevillian and a graduate of Armstrong High School, reigned with dignity and the poise for which she is known as Miss Homecoming of 1959-60.

Aside from being a scholar with charm, beauty, dignity, and poise, she is a member of the Future Business Leaders of America, and a Lambdalite. A freshman majoring in secretarial science, Miss Carter is planning a career as an executive secretary.

Ye 'Ole' Well ...And Thus It Began

It was during the nineteenth century that a group of Negroes, refusing to exist in the mist of complacency, pondered restlessly; their undeveloped but nurtured proposal led to an agreement to erect for their children a school. However, to accomplish this feat, it was essential to have a leader. To whom shall we turn? It was obvious; A.J. Chestnutt, Thomas Lomax, G. W. Granger, Sr., M. N. Leary, Jr., Robert H. Simmons, Nelson Carter, and David Bryant. "They'll be our trustees," was the voice of the group.

Together the trustees purchased a pair of lots for one hundred thirty-six dollars, from R. H. Simmons and H. C. McNeal. In the fall of 1867 there came into existance one more institution to aid of the fostering of the ideals of the educator; in commemoration of General O. O. Howard of the Freedmen's Bureau, the building erected on these lots bore his name. In less than a decade after its establishment the first principal, Robert Harris, performed what we could call a miracle. For achieving such progress Governor Vance was more or less obligated to present to the legislature a proposal that provisions be made for the training of colored teachers in the state of North Carolina. Following a lengthy debate, a favorable report was brought back by Governor Vance, who personally inspected the Howard School. It was decided to locate the teacher training institution in Fayetteville, North Carolina. Robert Harris, principal, was elected to establish the curriculum of the newly instituted Howard School, which as a result of the Legislative Act of 1877, was renamed the State Colored Normal School. In 1880, Charles W. Chesnutt received the principalship of the State Colored Normal School because of the death of Robert Harris. After rendering three years of service, Chestnutt resigned to practice law in Cleveland, Ohio. The task of administration was then thrust upon the shoulders of Ezekiel E. Smith, who served until 1888, and then resigned later to serve in the same capacity.

Presidents of this institution included:

G. H. Williams, 1888-1892

Dr. Smith, 1892-1898

R. E. Fairly, 1898-1899

President Smith again came to office. Under his administration a program of scholarship and expansion was embarked upon. Fifty acres of land was purchased; on this site, on Murchison Road, was erected Aycock Hall; two years later Vance Hall was constructed. As the school expanded, student enrollment soared higher, and that in turn created a need for a larger faculty and staff. Progress flourished abundantly during the administration for our notable Dr. J. W. Seabrook, who succeeded Dr. Smith in 1933. Advocating what he termed "the 3 E's" (Excellence, Energy, Enthusiasm), he has contributed much to the establishment of what is now known as Fayetteville State Teachers College. Most of the buildings now standing on this campus were erected during the administration of Dr. Seabrook.

Four years after Dr. Seabrook acquired the position of president of the institution. The Board of Education authorized the initiation of a course of study that would lead to a bachelor's degree in education and a class "A" certificate. On November 29, 1947, two years following the authorization, the Class "A" rating was granted the school by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Worn but by no means weary, Dr. Seabrook relinquished his position and went into retirement in 1956. Under the present administration of Dr. Rudolph Jones, Commercial Education, Auto Mechanics and a Marching B and have been added to the curriculum. Here the history of Fayetteville State Teachers College rests, however, only until the abstract once more becomes concrete and the hand again picks up the pen to move on.
